

Goal Alignment Circle of Success

Aligning our individual goals with department and university goals allows each of us to play a part in not only our individual success, but the university's success. This results in an endless cycle of progress, success and continuous improvement.

