NUMBER: 1.1015

DIVISION: Academic Affairs

TITLE: Consensual Relations Between Faculty and Students

DATE: August 15, 2006

REVISED: March 21, 2011, September 19, 2016, February 27, 2017, May 6, 2019,
October 20, 2021

AUTHORIZED: Robert Fischer, Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs

I. Purpose and Scope

Dating and sexual-relations between students and faculty members with whom they also have an academic, advisory, supervisory, or evaluative relationship are fraught with the potential for exploitation, and therefore are expressly prohibited. The respect and trust accorded a professor by a student as well as the power exercised by the professor in an academic or evaluative role make voluntary consent by the student suspect. Further, these relationships might be less consensual than the individual whose position confers power or authority believes. Even when both parties initially have consented, the power differential between faculty and student may make it difficult for the student to end a relationship for fear of retributions. The development of a dating and/or sexual relationship renders both the faculty member and the institution vulnerable to possible later allegations of sexual misconduct (e.g. sexual harassment, sexual assault) due to the significant power differential that exists between faculty members and students.

Pre-existing relationships (e.g. marital or Other Qualified Dependents) as defined by HR policy 4.230V are subject to the reporting requirements in Section III and may present a conflict of interest.

II. Policy:

In their work-related relationships with students, members of the faculty are expected to be aware of their professional responsibilities and avoid apparent or actual conflict of interest, favoritism, or bias.

A relationship between a faculty member and a student whom the faculty member evaluates, advises, or supervises, is expressly prohibited. A relationship between a student and a faculty member in their department who they do not directly evaluate, advise, or supervise or in another department at WKU is strongly discouraged.

This policy should not be construed to supersede any existing, applicable federal or state statutes.

Consensual and non-consensual relationships are addressed in the University's Discrimination and Harassment Policy (0.204V), and Title IX Sexual Misconduct/Assault Policy (0.207V).

III. Procedure

For pre-existing relationships that exist between a faculty member and a student whom the faculty member is subsequently assigned to evaluate, advise, or supervise, the faculty member must disclose the consensual relationship to their immediate superior (normally the department chair/director or college dean) and make arrangements to avoid advising, supervising, evaluating, or grading responsibilities for the consensual partner as described in HR Policy 4.230V. If a dating or sexual relationship develops between a faculty member and a student for whom the faculty member does not advise, supervise, or evaluate, the faculty member needs to report the relationship to their department chair/director.

Failure to act in accordance with this policy may result in personnel and/or disciplinary action. Confidentiality regarding consensual relationships will be maintained in so far as possible.
