

POLICY & PROCEDURE DOCUMENT

NUMBER: 6.3000

DIVISION: Enrollment & Student Experience

TITLE: Student Code of Conduct

DATE: July 01, 2023

REVISED: NA

AUTHORIZED: Ethan Logan, Vice President for Enrollment & Student Experience

I. Purpose and Scope

The Student Code of Conduct provides the standards of behavior developed by the Western Kentucky University (WKU, or the University) Community for individual students and for student organizations during their enrollment and recognized status respectively. WKU adopts reasonable rules and regulations applicable to students and student organizations which are necessary for the orderly, harmonious, and beneficial learning environment of the whole WKU Community. The Student Code of Conduct is intended to ensure that conduct of an individual student or organization aligns with WKU's educational mission, its goals to prepare productive, engaged, and socially responsible citizen-leaders, and institutional core values.

The Student Code of Conduct summarizes fair and impartial procedures that are used to determine the responsible person or persons in the event it is determined that student misconduct has occurred. The Student Code of Conduct outlines the procedure for redress of misconduct and appropriate sanctions, if any, for a student or student organizations deemed in violation of the University standards of behavior. Throughout the entirety of this process, individual rights and due process are sustained and respected.

Conduct Authority

Ultimate authority to govern student conduct rests within the Western Kentucky University Board of Regents. The Board of Regents delegates this authority to the President of the University. Subsequently, the President delegates this authority to the Division of Enrollment & Student Experience through the Assistant Vice President & Dean of Students, to the Office of Student Conduct and the Office of Institutional Equity (Title IX).

The Office of Student Conduct assumes the responsibility to oversee the administration of the Student Code of Conduct. When appropriate, the Office of Student Conduct may delegate conduct authority to additional University officials (e.g., Housing and Residence Life staff) and committees (e.g., University Disciplinary Committee) in keeping with University policies, rules, and regulations.

Jurisdiction

The Student Code of Conduct applies to individual students, both undergraduate and graduate, and all student organizations of WKU. For the purposes of student conduct, the University considers an individual to be a student from the point at which a student is enrolled with the institution and thereafter throughout the student's enrollment. At all times, students have access to the Student Code of Conduct. In addition, material copies of the Student Code of Conduct are contained in the Student Handbook and are available in the Office of Student Conduct and upon request.

The Student Code of Conduct and disciplinary authority of the University applies to behaviors of students and/or student organizations that occur on WKU premises, at University-sponsored activities and events, or in connection with a credit-bearing experience. Additionally, the Student Code of Conduct may, in the University's discretion, apply to off-campus conduct that causes a significant disruption to the educational mission of the University or presents a significant danger or threat of safety to themselves or others, such that if the conduct occurred on WKU premises, a possible outcome would be suspension or expulsion. For instance, conduct arising to this level, might include, but is not limited to, instances of drug trafficking or crimes of violence.

The conduct process outlined in this policy may proceed prior to, independent of, or concurrent with any civil or criminal proceedings. The administration of this policy is independent from any legal process and is not governed by the rules of evidence or civil or criminal procedure.

II. Policy

Code of Conduct

Students who violate federal, state, or local law may incur penalties prescribed by civil and criminal authorities. Nevertheless, the University reserves the right to review student incidents independent of action by civil and criminal authorities and to apply the University student conduct process as it serves the educational mission of WKU, a function separate and distinct from civil and criminal proceedings.

Academic freedom, constructive criticism, and due process depend upon civility of behavior by all members of the University community toward all other persons in all circumstances. The University will not tolerate the use or threat of force, violence, coercion, intimidation, obstruction, duress, or disruption by any individual or group. Members of the University community found to be participants in such activities will be subject to immediate disciplinary action. Likewise, appropriate measures will be taken to stop and correct such activities by any non-member of the University community.

Following procedures of due process, allegations of misconduct will be subject to the conduct process which is designed to be an inherently fair, impartial educational experience. If the actions and behavior of a student are duly found to be the responsibility of the student and detrimental to the University mission, function, property, or well-being, the University will apply an appropriate disciplinary sanction.

Any WKU student may be given a reprimand, placed on probation, suspended from the institution, or expelled from the institution because of student misconduct. Additional conditions and/or restrictions may also be invoked as an outcome of misconduct. The following are examples of conduct that is in violation of this Student Code of Conduct:

Investigation and Procedure

Alleged violations of University Policy # 0.2070: Sex and Gender-Based Discrimination, Harassment, and Retaliation, will be governed by the institutional policies and investigatory procedures outlined in said policy.

A. Due Process

A student or student organization who is alleged to be in violation of the Student Code of Conduct is entitled to fair, impartial management of the Student Code of Conduct process. This right includes the following:

1. To receive notification of allegations in writing for any alleged violation of the Student Code of Conduct, including details of the facts upon which the alleged violation is based.
2. To be present and respond to allegations in a meaningful way during all phases of the disciplinary process.
3. To receive periodic status updates during all phases of the investigation.

4. To have a support person(s) present at any phase of the disciplinary process provided that the support person does not violate the privacy rights of another student or substantially delay the disciplinary process.
5. To the presumption that a respondent is not responsible for the alleged violation of the Student Code of Conduct until the University has established every element of the alleged violation. This presumption will not be construed to mean that a complainant or witness has presented false testimony or evidence.
6. To receive notification of the outcome of the disciplinary process.
7. To be informed of the right to appeal a decision finding the student responsible for a violation.

Additional rights are afforded students/student organizations when a violation of the Student Code of Conduct is punishable by suspension or expulsion from the University or termination of campus housing. These rights including the following:

1. The student/student organization will be provided written notice of:
 - a. The rights of the Complainant and Respondent as set forth in the Student Code of Conduct, KRS 164.370, and applicable law; and
 - b. The date, time, and location of each phase of the disciplinary process at least:
 - i. Three (3) business days prior to any scheduled event at which the participant is expected to appear, including any meeting or interview that serves an investigative purpose; and
 - ii. Ten (10) business days prior to any disciplinary hearing.
2. A Complainant or Respondent may be represented by counsel, at the participant's expense, at each material phase of the disciplinary process. Upon receipt of written notification of representation, the University shall direct all correspondence related to the disciplinary process to both counsel and to the Complainant or Respondent.
3. A Complainant or Respondent will be granted reasonable access to all documents and evidence relevant to the alleged violation of the Student Code of Conduct and the University's investigation, but not to include privileged documents or internal communication that is not intended to be introduced at any hearing.

Notice will be deemed given, in writing, to a student or student organization through hard copy mail to the local address on file with the University and/or via official University email to the student's email account (or to the student(s) registered as officers of a student organization).

B. Standard of Proof

The standard of proof for a Student Code of Conduct conference (whether administrative or University Disciplinary Committee, see section D. below) will be the preponderance of evidence.

For a student to be found responsible for violation of the Student Code of Conduct, the information presented must indicate that it is more likely than not that the violation occurred.

C. Conduct Conference

A student responding to an alleged violation of the Student Code of Conduct will attend a conduct conference with a Student Conduct administrator or designee.

In cases which may result in the suspension or expulsion of a student(s), the conduct conference will be heard by the University Disciplinary Committee, see Section D. below.

These conferences will allow the student(s) in question to receive an overview of their rights and responsibilities afforded to every participant in a conduct process. Additionally, the student(s) will be provided a review of the source of complaint which indicates name(s) of the referral agent(s) and provides a narrative description of the events which substantiated the notification. The student(s) will have the opportunity to provide their statement surrounding the incident in question and present any information/evidence which supports their statement. Decision as to the responsibility of alleged violations of the Student Code of Conduct will be based upon the information gathered through conduct conference.

Incidents which invoke alleged violations of University Policy # 0.2040: Discrimination and Harassment or University Policy # 0.2070: Sex and Gender-Based Discrimination, Harassment, and Retaliation, will follow the processes outlined in the respective policy.

In cases which may result in suspension, expulsion, or termination of housing:

1. notification of the date, time, and place of the conduct conference will be provided to the student(s) at least ten (10) business days prior to the hearing.
2. The student(s) shall receive reasonable and continued access to the administrative file (redacted if the disclosure of evidence is otherwise prohibited by law), beginning seven (7) business days prior to the conduct conference.
3. All documentation and evidence must be in the file three (3) days prior to the conduct conference hearing or may not be admissible except upon the discretion of the conduct administrator or University Disciplinary Committee.
4. During a conduct conference hearing, a participant (or in defined cases, their counsel) may:
 - a. Make opening and closing statements.
 - b. Present relevant statements, documentation, and/or evidence.
 - c. Cross-examine testimony personally (or through counsel), according to guidelines established by KRS 164.370.

Due to the delicate nature of the conduct conference and because of the need to protect confidential records and the involved parties, hearings will otherwise be closed.

Pursuant to state law, the administrator/University Disciplinary Committee shall exclude individuals who investigate or presides over alternative dispute resolution from adjudication, where appropriate.

D. University Discipline Committee

The University Discipline Committee is established by action of the Board of Regents of Western Kentucky University in accordance with the Kentucky Revised Statutes which authorize the Board of Regents to invest the faculty/staff or a committee of faculty and staff with the responsibility to review student disciplinary matters that may result in suspension or expulsion of any student for severe violations of the WKU Student Code of Conduct or a gross disregard for the rights and safety of others in the university community. This Committee will consider all cases involving sanctions reaching a level of suspension or expulsion. In every case, the person suspended or expelled may appeal if they meet the appellate threshold.

E. Informal Conduct Procedures

A student who is alleged to be in violation of the Student Code of Conduct involving a violation which would result in sanctions which do not include: suspension, separation, expulsion, or removal from campus housing may be adjudicated through an informal conduct procedure. This informal conduct procedure is provided as a courtesy to students and to support the educational aspects of the conduct process. The informal procedure may not include the same procedural rights provided through the formal student conduct process but shall still reasonably respect a student's rights to timeliness, standards of proof, right to a conference, and right to an appeal. A student may, at any time, request that the informal procedure be waived in favor of the formal proceedings.

F. Interim Measures

The Office of Student Conduct will evaluate and consider mechanism for remedies which address both individual and community safety. In these cases, interim measures may be enacted including, but not limited to, implementation of no contact orders, academic support, adjustment to academic schedules or living arrangements, and/or interim suspension of the student from the University.

In instances where a student(s) in question may be found in violation of the Student Code of Conduct with an outcome that may result in suspension, expulsion, and/or termination of residence in campus housing, these interim measures may be implemented during the investigation to ensure the physical safety of members of the University community. Within twenty-four (24) hours of implementing one of these interim measures, a student will receive written notice that explains the University's reasons for enacting the interim measure. A student will have the opportunity to participate in an Interim Measures Hearing within three (3) business days of the written notice, unless otherwise waived by the student. The hearing will be conducted with a third-party administrator (not involved in the investigation) to determine whether there is substantial evidence that the student poses a risk to the physical safety of a member of the campus community and that the interim measure is appropriate to mitigate that risk.

IV. Outcomes of Violation(s) of the Student Code of Conduct

The following list describes University sanctions, conditions, and restrictions that may be administered as a result of violating the WKU Student Code of Conduct. These may be prescribed independently or in combination depending upon the particular circumstances of the violation. Chronic and/or multiple violations during the course of a student's college career at WKU may increase the severity of outcomes applied.

A. Sanctions

The following are examples of disciplinary sanctions that may be imposed. This list is not to be considered exhaustive. Any sanction(s) imposed shall bear reasonable relation to the nature of the violation and may include one or more of the following::

1. Warning and/or Reprimand: Official notice that a student is in violation of the Student Code of Conduct, and that the continuation of such conduct may result in further disciplinary action.
2. Housing Probation: A period to monitor and review a student's conduct as it directly relates to their ability to continue to reside in on-campus residential living. During housing probation, the student must demonstrate compliance with Hilltopics: Handbook for Residence Hall Living and the WKU Student Code of Conduct. Continued deviation and/or disruptive behavior while on housing probation may result in removal from and/or inability to reside in on-campus housing. This may be imposed for a specified period. Housing Probation may be used as an educational outcome where the student's behavior has been determined to be detrimental to the core mission of the University.
3. Disciplinary Probation: A period of monitoring and review of student conduct in which the student demonstrates compliance with the provisions of University policy and regulations. A student found in subsequent violation of the Student Code of Conduct while on Disciplinary Probation (and/or a student on academic probation and placed on Disciplinary Probation) may be subject to immediate suspension or expulsion.
4. Deferred Suspension: In some cases, a sanction of suspension may be held in abeyance for a specified period. A student found responsible for a subsequent violation of the Student Code of Conduct may face immediate Suspension, in addition to the disciplinary action invoked by the subsequent violation.
5. Suspension: A separation or exclusion from the University for a defined period of time, generally from one term to one year, until certain time and/or conditions are met.
6. Separation: Dismissal from the University for at least one term. Students separated from the University are eligible to apply for reinstatement to the University after this period. Readmission is not guaranteed.
7. Expulsion: Dismissal from the University for an indefinite period. Any student expelled may not, thereafter, be readmitted to WKU except upon application to the Board of Regents through the University President.

B. Conditions

Disciplinary Conditions may include one or more of the following:

1. Conduct Hold: A student(s) ability to access, change, or alter course registration and/or admission status may be restricted for a specified period.
2. Creative Discipline: A condition that may be used in lieu of, or in combination with, sanctions. Creative discipline will be consistent with the offense committed and is intended to be an educational process. In some cases, at the discretion of the conduct administrator, a student found in violation may attend special educational seminars, classes, or workshops offered in the subject area of the violation or that are directly related to the violation. In these cases, the student(s) must submit written proof of completion to the Office of Student Conduct.
3. Parental Contact: The University may contact parents or legal guardians of students found in violation of policy concerning the possession of alcohol or controlled substances if the student is less than 21 years of age.
4. Disciplinary Agreement: Behavioral contract between the University and the student(s) whereby the student agrees, in writing, to correct inappropriate behaviors.
5. Restitution: Reimbursement by transfer of property or service to the University or a member of the University community in an amount not in excess of the damage or loss incurred.

C. Restrictions

Disciplinary restrictions may include one or more of the following:

1. Restricted Use of Facilities: Denial of on-campus use of an automobile for a specified period, removal from a Living Learning Community, or other privileges including the use of specific University facilities consistent with the offense committed.
2. Restricted University Participation: Restricted or barred from participating in extra-curricular activities including recognized student organizations and/or representing the University in any manner. For conduct involving student organizations, this may include the loss of privileges, including University recognition, for a specified period. Classroom attendance is not included in this restriction.

D. Administrative Withdrawal

A request for an administrative withdrawal is initiated by the University because of a disciplinary situation when, in the professional judgement of a health care provider, psychologist, and/or university administrator, there is reason to believe a student is a substantial threat to him/herself or interferes with the welfare of other members of the University, the education process, or the orderly operations of the University. The Vice President for Enrollment & Student Experience or the Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, or their respective designees, will notify the student of the involuntary withdrawal, and the University Registrar will be directed to withdraw the student from all classes in which the student is currently enrolled and cancel registration that has occurred for any future terms. The Office of the Registrar will notify the student's instructors of the withdrawal, and “W” grades will be recorded for the term in progress. A student who is administratively withdrawn will have a registration hold placed by the Vice President for Enrollment & Student Experience or the Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs to prevent the student from being readmitted or re-enrolled unless cleared by the appropriate administrator or their respective designee. A student may file a written appeal of an involuntary withdrawal through the office that administered the withdrawal. Tuition refund appeals for administrative withdrawals are handled in a separate procedure, and instructions may be obtained from the Bursar’s Office.

V. Appeal

The decision of the original conduct administrator or committee may be appealed as set forth below. An appeal must be submitted, in accordance with sections V.A-B below, within five (5) business days of receiving the written decision or outcome of violation of the Student Code of Conduct.

A. Grounds for Appeal

Appeals of the outcome of a student conduct process must be based upon one, or more, of the following criteria:

1. Whether the conduct hearing or conference was conducted fairly and in accordance with the procedures outlined in the Student Code of Conduct.
2. Whether there was sufficient evidence presented during the conduct hearing or conference process to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, that a violation of the Student Code of Conduct occurred.
3. Whether sanctions imposed were appropriate in light of the nature of the violation.
4. Whether there is new information that was not known to the person requesting the review at the time of the conduct hearing or conference, and that, if presented at the conduct hearing or conference, would more likely than not have altered the decision.

B. Appeal Review Designee

A student who wishes to file an appeal based upon one or more of the above criteria must do so, in writing, to the appropriate reviewer described herein:

1. Students who wish to appeal an outcome of removal/denial of student housing by the Assistant Director of Student Behavior and Conduct in Housing and Residence Life must submit an appeal to the Assistant Vice President of Student Engagement & Executive Director of Housing and Residence Life. Further appeal may be made to the Vice President of Enrollment and Student Experience, or designee, for final decision.
2. Students who wish to appeal the outcome of a conduct process conducted by Residence Life staff, not covered by (a) above, must submit a written appeal to the Assistant Director of Residence Life. Further appeal may be made to the Director of Residence Life or the Executive Director of Housing & Residence Life for final decision.

3. Students who wish to appeal the outcome of the Office of Student Conduct's decision must submit an appeal to the Assistant Vice President of Student Life & Dean of Students. This decision may be further appealed to the Vice President of Enrollment and Student Experience. The decision of the Vice President is final.
4. Students who wish to appeal an outcome of the University Disciplinary Committee must submit an appeal to the Vice President of Enrollment and Student Experience. If the Vice President upholds the outcome, further appeal may be made to the President. In the event the President considers the outcome to be inconsistent with the principles and standards of conduct of the University community, the President may request that the case be reopened and reheard by the University Disciplinary Committee. If the President upholds the outcome of suspension, expulsion, or termination from University housing, students have the right to appeal to the Board of Regents, or its designee. The decision of the Board of Regents, or designee, is final.

For each instance of a further appeal, said appeal must be submitted to the appropriate secondary or tertiary appeals officer within five (5) business days of receiving the written decision or outcome.

A participant who has the final order overturned for an appeal of suspension, expulsion, or denial of student housing/loss of network access may be entitled to actual damages from the University, including reasonable attorney's fees and court costs (where applicable, KRS 164.370, Kentucky Campus Due Process Protection Act).
